BIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR

He is Muhammad bin Ahmad bin 'Uthmân bin Qaymâz at-Turkamâni adh-Dhahabi, Shamsu-d-Din, Abû 'Abdullâh, the Hadith Master (hâfi'dî), the great scholar ('allâmâh), the historian (mu'arrîkh) and researching scholar (muhaqqîq). He was born in Kafarabatnâ, Damascus, in the year 673H and travelled to many different lands in the pursuit of knowledge.

He studied under a galaxy of scholars, male and female, some of whom were Shaykh al-Islâm ibn Taymiyyah, ibn Daqiq al-‘Eid, Ibrâhîm at-Tabarî, 'Umar bin al-‘Abbâs, Abû al-Hajîj al-Mizzî, 'Alamu-d-Dín al-Barzâli, Khadijah bint Yûsuf, Zainab bint Ahmad and Fâtimah bint Ibrâhim.

He excelled in the sciences of Qur'ân recitation, hadith, jarih wa-t-ta'dil, and history. He was appointed as teacher in a number of hadith schools in Damascus such as Dâr al-Hadith al-'Arawiyyah, Dâr al-Hadith an-Nafsîyyah and Dâr al-Hadith al-Âdiliyyah.

He was highly respected and praised by many of the great scholars, it is sufficient to mention that ibn Hajr al-'Asqalânî used to drink Zamzam with the intention of attaining the rank of adh-Dhahabi in knowledge and he said about him, ‘he is among those who have total mastery in the field of critiquing hadith narrators.'

He had many students, some of whom were, Ahmad bin Muhammad al-Maqdisî, Ahmad bin Muhammad al-Alâ'i, ibn Kathîr and Taqi-ud-Din as-Subki.
He authored many invaluable works, exceeding two hundred, which were sought after in all the lands. Some of the more famous ones are, al-Arba‘īn fi Sifātillah, al-Ulum, Tanqīḥ at-Tabqiq, Mizān al-I‘tīdāl, Tārikh al-Islām, Siyar A‘lām an-Nubūlā‘ and Tadkbiratu-l-Huṣād.

He became blind seven years before he passed away in the year 748H, may Allāh have mercy upon him.¹

The title of this treatise is, Tashabbiḥ al-Khāsis bi Aḥlāl-Khamīṣ fī-r-Radd at-Tashabbiḥ bi-l-Mushrikeen which could be translated as, ‘the disgraceful imitation of those who celebrate al-Khamīṣ,² a refutation of imitating the polytheists.’

² It is written in the manuscript in small writing above this title, ‘i.e. Khamīṣ al-Bayḍ and it is well-known.’

I say: this Khamīṣ is divided into two categories:

a) The Lesser Khamīṣ which refers to the last Thursday to fall in the days in which the Christians fast.

b) The Greater Khamīṣ which falls at the end of their days of fasting, they call this occasion ‘the Celebration of the Last Supper’ (‘īd al-mā‘īdā‘).

Refer to ibn Taymiyyah, ‘Ītīdā‘ al-Sirāt al-Mustaqīm [1/314] and the notes of its editor.

«T» The days in which the Christians fast are known as Lent; they commence from Ash Wednesday, last forty weekdays and end with Easter. Easter is the Christian festival celebrating the ‘resurrection’ of Jesus. So the Khamīṣ which the author, may Allāh have mercy upon him, mentions most probably means Easter.

The Monday before Lent, Collop Monday, was spent in eating meat=
Imitating the disbelievers

=and the Tuesday in eating sweets – the origin of Pancake day.

Another important Christian action of worship is the Eucharist. This is the Christian sacrament commemorating the Last Supper in which bread and wine are consecrated and consumed. The author makes frequent reference to the consuming of bread in this treatise, perhaps this is in reference to this act and other Christian worships in which bread is consumed.
IMITATING THE DISBELIEVERS
AL-HĀFĪDH ADH-DHAHABI (D.748H)

THE TREATISE

All praise and thanks are due to the One who favoured us with Islam, Who granted us sight after blindness, Who guided us from misguidance and bestowed upon us blessings that allow us to abide by the upright and steadfast religion.

Peace and blessings be upon our master, Muhammad, who was sent as a mercy to all of the worlds, as an Imam for the pious and God-fearing, as an intercessor¹ for the sinners, as a warner — warning against imitating the Jews, Christians and Sabians,² and as a caller to Allāh upon firm knowledge with the clearest of proofs. [Peace and blessings be upon him], his family and all of his Companions.

It is truly distressing to find the ignorant masses losing much [knowledge and understanding] of what the righteous Salaf ³

² They are a people who worship the stars and Angels. Refer to Taṣāfīr ʿibn Kathīr [1/104].

³ These are the people of those generations about whom the Prophet (ﷺ) testified to be upon good, 'the best of people are my generation, then those= were upon comprising their holding firm to the Straight Path, their avoiding innovations and their shunning the distinguishing features of the denizens of Hell. Similarly it is distressing to find the ignorant ones of the Khalaf following every sinful, misguided individual. There is no might or movement except with Allâh, the Most High, the Great!

That which the Noble Messenger (ﷺ) warned us of has occurred when he said,

َلْتَشْيِعَنَّ سَنَنَّ مِنْ كَانَ فِیْکُمْ حَذَوْنَ الْغَدْنَةِ بِالْغَدْنَةِ،

ِحَتَّیٰ لَوْ دَخَلُوا جَحَرٌ ضَبْبٌ لَّدَخَلْتُمُوهُ؛ قَالَ: اِبْنُ سَلَامَةَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ إِلَيْهِدْمَ الْبَضَارِی؟ قَالَ: فَمَا؟

‘You will surely follow the ways of those who came before you, in exactly the same fashion, to the point that were they to enter the hole of a lizard, you too would enter it.’ It was asked of him, ‘O Messenger of Allâh! Do you mean the Jews and Christians?’ He

=who follow, then those who follow...’

They are the one who came after the Salaf, those who deviated from their path and opposed their methodology (manhaj). O Allâh! We ask You that we follow the path of the Salaf, and we take refuge with You from the innovations of the Khalaf.
replied, ‘who else?’

Meaning who else could I be referring to?

The Prophet (ﷺ) said,

\[\text{Whoever imitates a people is of them.}\]

The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said,

\[\text{The Jews are those who have anger upon them and the Christians are those who have strayed.}\]

5 Reported by Bukhārī [Eng. Trans. 4/440 no. 662, 9/314 no. 422] and Muslim [Eng. Trans. 4/1403 no.s 6448-6449] from Abū Sa‘īd. It is also reported by Bukhārī [Eng. Trans. 9/314 no. 421] from Abū Hurayrah.

6 A portion of a hadith reported by Ahmad [no.s 5114, 5115] from ibn ‘Umar with a hasan ijmād. This portion itself is reported by Abū Dāwūd [Eng. Trans. 3/1127 no. 4020] with a hasan ijmād and it was declared saḥīh by al-Īrāqī, al-Mugtāzi ‘an Hāmal al-Aṣfār [1/342].

7 Reported by at-Tirmidhī [no. 2956], Ahmad [4/378] and ibn Hibbān [no.s 1715, 2279].

Its ijmād contains ‘Ubbād bin Ḥubaysh, only one narrator reports from him and ibn Hibbān declared him thiqāh! Al-Ḥāfizh said, ‘maqābūr’. I say: the hadith has a number of witnesses, both mawqūf and marfū‘, that have been mentioned by as-Suyūṭī, ad-Durr al-Manthūr [1/42].

Therefore the hadith is hasan inshā‘ Allāh.
Allâh has obligated upon you, O Muslim, to supplicate to Him, the Exalted, every single day and night, seventeen times, asking Him for guidance to the Straight Path, the path of those whom He favoured, not the [path] of those who have anger upon them nor the [path] of the misguided.

How can you bring yourself to imitate a people whose description is this, who are but fuel for the fire?

If it was said to you, 'imitate an object of ridicule, a laughing stock', you would surely scorn this and become angry. How is it then that you imitate the uncircumcised worshipper of the cross in his celebrations ('eid)? How is it that you dress your children with new clothes and inculcate a sense of joy in them? How is it that you decorate eggs for them, buy incense (bukhûr) and celebrate the festival of your enemy in the same fashion as you would celebrate the 'eid [legislated by] your Prophet (ﷺ)?

Where would such a practice take you except to the anger of Allâh and his displeasure? Provided He does not forgive you that is, and provided that you know that your Prophet, Muhammad (ﷺ) used to encourage differing from the People of the Book in everything that was specific to them.

8 i.e. in the five obligatory prayers through reciting Sûrah al-Fâtiha.

9 This refers to Eid al-Fitr and Eid al-Adhâ, these are the two 'eids that have been legally legislated for us in Islam, every other 'eid is an innovation in the religion of Allâh. Refer to the treatise by al-Fâkihâni, al-Mawridi Amal al-Mawlid and my notes upon it.

10 The stipulation of knowledge is important, so be aware of it!

11 The stipulation of specificity is important, through it a great difficulty is Consider white hairs about which the Prophet (ﷺ) said,

من شام شيبة في الإسلام كانت له نورا يوم القيامة

Whoever [lives to see] a single white hair [on him] in Islam, it will be a light for him on the Day of Judgment.12 yet at the same time he ordered us to dye them another colour, [other than black], in order to differ from them, saying,

إن اليهود لا يختصبون فخالفهم

Indeed the Jews do not dye their hair, so differ from them.13

=removed that commonly crosses the minds of people – what is the principle that determines when one has resembled the disbelievers?

The answer is: doing that which is specific to them.

The comments of the author, may Allah have mercy upon him, concerning this follow:

12 A portion of a hadith reported by at-Tirmidhi [no. 1634] and an-Nasâ’i [6/26] from ‘Amr bin ‘Abasa.

The ānāh contains the ‘an’arah of Baqiyah who used to commit ta’dil at-taswīyāb. However it has other routes from Fudâlah bin ‘Ubaib, ‘Umar, Abû Hurayrah and Abû Najih as-Sulami.

Therefore the hadith is sahîh due to witnesses. Refer to al-Albâni, Silsilah as-Sahîhah [3/248].

«T» The wording used by the author, may Allah have mercy upon him, has been reported by at-Tirmidhi [no. 1700] from Ka'b bin Murrah. The hadith of ‘Amr is quoted after it but has ‘in the way of Allah’ instead of ‘in Islam.’

13 Reported by Bukhârî [Eng. Trans. 4/442 no. 668, 7/519 no. 786], Muslim [Eng. Trans. 3/1156 no. 5245] and others from Abû Hurayrah.
He obligated us to differ from them in many matters, from those matters that were specific to them such as:

إذا كان أحدكم نوبان فليصل فهما، فإن لم يكُسْ الله إلا نوب فليخسر به، ولا ينسمل اشمال

If any one of you has two garments then let him pray in them, if he only has one garment then let him tie it firmly like an iqār [waist wrapper] and not let it hang off the shoulder as the Jews do.¹⁴

Reported by Abū Dāwūd.¹⁵

١٤ That is by draping it over the body and letting it hang, without lifting the end. «T» as stated by al-Khaṭṭābī, Ma‘ālim as-Sunan [1/154] and quoted by al-Adhim abādī, ‘Ayn al-Maw‘ūd [2/339].
Differ from the Jews and pray in your shoes for they do not pray in their shoes or leather socks.

Reported by Shaddad bin Aws.\(^1\)

Do you not see that the blue and yellow turbans (\textit{\'umāmah}) used to be lawful for us to wear previously, but ever since the turn of the eighth century when Sultan al-Malik an-Nāṣir\(^2\) imposed upon [the Jews and Christians] to wear them, they become prohibited for us?

Can you now, O Muslim, bring yourself to wear a yellow or blue turban?! You are drowning in the intoxication of negligence and carelessness,

Ibn Kathir, \textit{al-Bidāyah wa \textit{an-Nihayah}} [14/16] said concerning the events that occurred in the year 700H, ‘on Monday the conditions of custody and protection (\textit{dhimma}) were read to the Ablā\-\textit{dh-Dhimma} and they were enjoined to them and an agreement was reached to segregate them to the outlying districts, hence they were subjugated and humiliated. This was proclaimed throughout
Imitating the disbelievers...

...Differ from the polytheists...18

The difference between our fasting and the fasting of the People of the Book is the partaking of the suhûr (pre-dawn meal).19

A group of the Salaf, such as Mujahid explained the saying of Allâh, the Exalted,

«Those who do not witness falsehood...» [Al- Furqân (25): 72]

to mean witnessing the celebrations of the polytheists.20

18 ‘The end of the hudâb is, ‘let the beard flow and trim the moustache.’ Reported by Bukhârî [Eng. Trans. 7/516 no. 780], Muslim [Eng. Trans. 1/159 no. 498-500] and al-Bayhaqî [1/150] from ibn ‘Umar.

19 ‘Tâ Also reported by Muslim [Eng. Trans. 1/160 no. 501] from Abû Hurayrah.

20 As-Suyûtî, ad-Durr al-Manthûr (6/282) recorded this from ibn ‘Abbâs and=
The Messenger of Allâh (ﷺ) said,

١٥

Every nation has their celebration, and indeed our celebration is this day. ٢١

This saying of his necessitates the constraint of every nation to its own particular celebration. Allâh, the Exalted says,

«To each we have appointed a law and a way»

[Al-Mâ'idah (5): 48]

So if the Christians have their specific festival and the Jews have their specific festival, the Muslim cannot join them in celebrating it, in the same way that he cannot join them in following their law or in their direction of prayer.

It is known that from amongst the conditions that ‘Umar (radiyAllâhu ‘anhu) laid down were that the Ablu-dh-Dhimma ٢٢ could not openly observe their celebrations. ٢٣ The Muslims unanimously agreed to this.

٢٢ «T» i.e. non-Muslims living under the protection of the Islamic state.

٢٣ Ibn al-Qayyîm, Ahkâm Abî-âb-Dhimma [2/659-778] has a detailed commentary to these conditions.
So how then is it permissible for the Muslims to openly practice their specific customs? Customs such as dying the hair of children, decorating eggs, buying and selling sheets that have coloured pictures on them, metal cups which are used to sprinkle incense over someone [giving off a smell] that would repulse the Angels, attract the devils, and support the open celebration of practices specific to the accursed transgressors, ringing their bells in the markets, and allowing men and children to place bets with each other using eggs.\textsuperscript{24}

There is no movement or might except with Allah, the Most High, the Great.

The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) said,

\text{ وإن } \text{ السّاس } \text{ إذا} \text{ رأى} \text{ المُتّكَرِ،} \text{ فّلَمَّ} \text{ يُغَيِّرُوه}، \text{ أُوْحِيَ} \text{ أنَّ}
\text{ يَعْمَلُهُم} \text{ اللّهُ} \text{ بِعَقَابِ مِنْ عَنَدِهِ}

When people see the evil and do not make efforts in changing it, soon will Allah cover them all with a punishment from Himself.\textsuperscript{25}

\text{مَا مِنْ قَوْمٍ يُعْمَلُ فِيهِمْ بِالْعَاصِيَ} \text{ هُمْ أَعْزَأْ} \text{ وَأَمْنَاعُ}
\text{مِمَّنْ يَعْمَلُهُمْ ثُمَّ لَا يُعَيَّنُونَ} \text{ ذَلِكَ} \text{ إِلَّا عَمَّنْ} \text{ اللّهُ}
\text{بِعَقَابٍ مِّنْهُ}

\textsuperscript{24} And today we find that people have exceeded this and have started betting with money and things more precious than it!

\textsuperscript{25} Reported by at-Tirmidhi [no. 3959], ibn Majah [Eng. Trans. 5/321 no. 4005], Abū Dāwūd [Eng. Trans. 3/1217 no. 4324] and others from Abū Bakr.

The sabd is subhi.
There is not a single nation amongst whom a sin is committed, and they are stronger and more capable [of preventing it] than the one committing it, then they do not change it, except that Allâh would cover them with a punishment from Him. 26

From the most vile of matters and greatest of calamities is what you see of your ignorant brother buying this incense and coloured paper for his ignorant wife who proceeds to place it in the open, under the sky, thinking that Mary would drag the trail of her gown over it! Whereas Mary, upon her be peace, has died and was buried something like thirteen hundred years ago!

She draws a cross with tar on your door in order to safeguard against magic! She sticks pictures on the wall thinking that they will cause snakes and scorpions to flee whereas in reality the only ones fleeing will be the Angels!

By Allâh, I do not know what you have left of exalting the Christians? By Allâh, if you do not reject these practices, then you must either accept them and be pleased with them or be ignorant.27 We take refuge with Allâh from ignorance.

The Messenger of Allâh (ﷺ) said,

26 Reported by Ahmad [4/361, 363, 364, 366], Abû Dâwûd [Eng. Trans. 3/1208 no. 4325], ibn Mâjah [Eng. Trans. 5/324 no. 4009] and others via a number of routes from Jarîr ìn Abbû Abdûl-lâh. It is hasan and is supported by the previous hadîth.

27 And whoever is pleased with these practices and content in his heart becomes a kâfîr and refuge is sought with Allâh! Whoever does these practices out of ignorance should be taught so that his ignorance is removed.
Whoever imitates a people is of them.

Now if someone were to say: but we do not intend to resemble them!

It would be said in reply: The very action of agreeing with them and participating with them in their festive seasons and celebrations is prohibited. The evidence for this is what is established in the authentic hadith from the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) that he,

Prohibited prayer at the time of sunrise and sunset

He (ﷺ) said,

Indeed it rises between the two horns of Satan and it is at that time that the disbelievers prostrate to it.

Reported by Bukhārī [Eng Trans. 1/324 no. 562], Muslim [Eng. Trans. 1/395 no. 1803] and others from Abū Hurayrah.

Reported by Muslim [Eng. Trans. 2/395 no. 1812]

«T» as part of a lengthy hadith], Abū Dāwūd [Eng Trans. 1/336 no. 2
However the one who is praying does not intend this, because were he to intend it he would become a disbeliever, rather the action itself of agreeing and participating is prohibited.

There are also many causes of corruption which result from imitating them, from amongst them are:

The Muslim children will be raised upon loving these festivals of disbelief due to what is prepared in them of playful pastimes, new clothes, food, loaves of bread and other such things. What an evil teacher you are, O Muslim, if you do not prohibit your family and children from this and you do not explain to them that these are the practices of the Christians and that it is not permissible for us to join in with them or imitate them.

Satan has adorned these practices for many of the ignorant masses and the negligent scholars – even though they may be attributed to knowledge, for such a persons knowledge becomes a cause of punishment for him as he (ﷺ) said,

\text{أَنَّ النَّاسِ عَنْاضَ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ عَالِمَ أَمَّامَ نَفْسِهِ اِلَّهَ}

The severest of people punished on the Day of Judgement will be a scholar who Allah did not benefit through his knowledge.\(^\text{30}\)}

\(^{111808}\) from ibn 30 as-

\(^{1272}\) and an-Nasâ’î [1/279] from ‘Amr bin ‘Abasa.

\(^{30}\) Reported by al-‘Ajurri, ‘\(khaq\) al-Ulama’ [no. 128], ibn ‘Abdi-l-Barr, al-Jâmi’[1/ 165], ibn ‘Asâkir, Dhamm man lâ Ya’mal bi ‘Umârib’ [pg. 33] and at-Tabarâni, at-

\(^{83}\) Its isnâd is da’if jeddân. ‘Uthmân al-Burri was declared mattrîk by more than one [scholar].
Whichever knows something, yet acts contrary to it will be punished for it on the Day of Judgement. It is obligatory upon the one endowed with authority to actively stop all of this with all of his ability; indeed in allowing it to continue lies an open license for the followers of the cross to openly manifest their specific practices.

It is reported from 'Umar bin al-Khattab (raddiyyAllahu 'anhu) that he said, 'do not learn the manner of speech of the Persians, and do not enter the churches of the polytheists on the day of their festivals for indeed displeasure descends upon them.'

Therefore it is necessary that every Muslim avoid their celebrations and safeguard himself, the women of his family and his children from them, if he truly believes in Allah and the Last Day. We should not say as some of those obstinate deniers when prohibited from this, 'what do we have against them?'

The noble master, Fudail bin 'Ayād said, 'O my brother! Upon you is to follow the ways of guidance, even if those traversing them are few, and to avoid the ways of misguidance even if those rushing to their destruction are many.'

=However the hadith is established as a mauqīf report from Abū ad-Dardā' reported by ad-Dārimi [1/82], ibn al-Mubārak, az-Zuhāl [no. 40], Abū Nu‘aym [1/223] and ibn Abdīl-Barr [1/165]. Its irādā is salīh.

31 The likes of this is reported by al-Bayhaqī, as-Sunan al-Kubra [9/234], 'Abdur-Razzaq [no. 1609] and it was declared ṣalīh by Shaykh al-Islām, Iqtīdā' as-Sirrāt al-Mustaqīm [1/455].
Satan has deceived and embellished for many of the misguided sinners, their travelling to another land or city for the purpose of finding comfort with, and aiding, other misguided sinners and to increase their numbers. In the hadith there occurs,

\text{مَن كَثَر سُوَّاد قُوْمٍ حَسَر مَعَهُمَ}.

Whoever increases the mass of a nation will be resurrected with them. 32

Allâh, the Mighty and Magnificent says,

	ext{أَتَنَا إِلَيْهِمْ مَثَلًا وَمَثَلُ جَنَّةٍ مَّضْرَعَ­}\\ ext{وَمَثَلُ جَحَّامٍ مَّسْتَنْكَرَ}\\ ext{أَوْلَادُ بَعْضٍ مِّنَ الْجَاهِلِينَ}\\ ext{أَوْلَادُ بَعْضٍ مِّنَ الْمُعْتَسِبِينَ}\\ ext{أَوْلَادُ بَعْضٍ مِّنَ الْمُسْتَهْلِكِينَ}\\ ext{أَوْلَادُ بَعْضٍ مِّنَ الْمُتَّلَقِينَ}.

«O you who believe! Do not take the Jews and Christians as friends and protectors, they are only friends and protectors of each other. Whoever among you takes them as friends and protectors is surely one of them. Allâh does not

32 Reported by ad-Dâlimi [no. 5261 of the summary], Abû Ya‘lî, and ‘Alî bin Ma‘bad, Kitâb al-Tâ’ab wa-l-Ma‘izyâb as mentioned in ‘Nasb ar-Rayâh’ [4/346] via the route of ibn Wahb; from Bakr bin Mu‘ân; from ‘Amr bin al-‘Hârîth; from ibn Mas‘ûd.

I say: its narrators are tâqiim except that it is munqâb’ between ‘Amr and ibn Mas‘ûd.

Ibn al-Mubârak, as-Zâbîl reports it as a mawqûf statement of Abû Dharr. I say: it contains al-Ifrîqi who is da‘îf. Then I saw the likes of what I said being stated by ibn Hajîr, al-Matâlîb al-‘A‘lîyâb [no. 1605] and all praise is due to Allâh Alone.
Imitating the disbelievers » [Al-Māidah (5): 51]

The scholars have said that part and parcel of taking them as friends and protectors is to imitate them and to openly celebrate their festivals whereas they themselves are ordered to celebrate them in private in the Muslim lands. Hence when a Muslim celebrates their festival with them he has aided them in publicly celebrating it.

This is an evil act and an innovation (bid'ah) in Islam, none would commit it except for one who is severely lacking in religion and faith. Such a person falls under the saying of the Prophet (ﷺ),

«Whoever imitates a people is of them.»

Allāh has praised those who do not witness the celebrations of the disbelievers and do not participate in them, saying,

«Those who do not witness falsehood...» [Al-Furqān (25): 72]

The understanding of this verse is that those who do witness it and participate in it are blameworthy and hated because they have [purposefully] witnessed evil even though they have no intention of preventing it. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, taking them as openly cel-

What evil is greater than participating with the Jews and Christians in observing their celebrations and festive seasons, cooking what they cook such as flat loaves of bread, selling incense, dying the hair of their women and children, decorating eggs, wearing new clothes, and going out to the busy centres of the city and the seaside’s wearing extravagant and expensive attire.
This while the Jews and Christians are in a state of humility, under our authority, and they do not participate with us or try to imitate us in our celebrations.

How will you be able to look at the face of your Prophet tomorrow, on the Day of Judgement? You have opposed his Sunnah and enacted the action of a disbelieving people, those who are misguided, those who are enemies of this religion!

If someone were to say: we only do this to entertain our children and women.

Reported by Muslim [Eng. Trans. 1/33 no.s 79-80], Abú Dáwúd [Eng.
Trans. 3/1208 no. 4326] and others from Abú Sa‘íd al-Khuḍrî.
Imitating the disbelievers

It is said in reply: the worst type of people are those who are pleased and content for their family with that which displeases Allāh, the Exalted. Al-Hasan al-Basrī said, ‘a man does not awake and follow the orders of his wife in everything she desires, except that Allāh would throw him face first in the Fire.’ Allāh, the Glorious and Exalted says in His Great Book, «O you who believe! Save yourselves and your families from a Fire...» [Al-Tahrim (66): 6]

Meaning: teach them and bring them up correctly, enjoin them to the good and prohibit them from the evil so that you may be saved from the Fire whose description is that it would have as its fuel, men and stones. It is postulated that stones refer to the various types of arrogance, may Allāh save us from them.

It is reported from ‘Abdullāh bin ‘Amr (radiyAllahu ‘anhumā) that he said, ‘whoever observes their New Year and other celebrations and imitates them until he dies in that state, without having repented, will be resurrected with them on the Day of Judgment.’ Reported by ‘Awp; from al-Mughirah; from ‘Abdullāh.

This saying of his necessitates that this action is from the major sins and know that performing a small amount will lead to performing a large amount.

34 I have not found it. Refer also to ad-Durr al-Manthur [8/223-224].

35 As reported by al-Bayhaqi, as-Sunan al-Kabrā [9/234] and Shaykh al-Islām declared its isnād to be sabīl in al-Iṣnaḍī [1/457].
It is necessary that the Muslim seals this door from its roots and arouses distaste in his family and children from enacting anything of this. Goodness should be a matter of habit and avoiding innovation is an action of worship.

The ignorant should not say, ‘I am trying to entertain my children!’ O Muslim can you find no way to entertain them except with that which displeases the All Merciful, pleases Satan and is actually a signpost of disbelief and transgression?

What an evil teacher you are! This is how you raise your children?

My brother! How strong you would become if you oppose your base desires, and how you would be led astray were you to obey your base desires, you would end up having none to blame but yourself. How sick you would become if you were not to drink your medicine. How much joy and bliss would you discover if the gardens of Paradise were your final abode. What a shameful religion is it of the one who follows the legislation of the pastors and rabbis. How ignorant is the one who tries to repel magic from his house by hanging crosses made of tar. What a disgusting smell is the smell of their perfumes and incenses [employed on their celebrations]!

Where are you heading, you old, feeble, evil soul? To the graves? When will you stop striking those copper church bells at which is recited their sinful, false liturgy?

Whoever exalts their disgraced (not great) Easter, then this is from the greatest of evil. Whoever fears Allâh and exalts His sacred laws, then this is from the \textit{taqwâ} of the hearts.

O Turner of the hearts! Inspire us to follow the Sunnah of Your Prophet, and save us from innovation and imitating the disbelievers.

From the examples of imitating the Christians is what is performed by the ignoramuses of the inhabitants of Ba'labakka and al-Baqâ'\(^\text{46}\) in their lighting fires in vineyards and orchards on the night of the celebration of the Crucifixion (Good Friday).\(^\text{47}\) This is also from openly displaying the specific signs of the Christians, evil be upon the one who does it!

Similarly the lighting of fires on the night of Christmas, buying wax candles, taking a holiday, delighting in sweets and honey cakes, and openly displaying joy and excitement.

This constitutes reviving the religion of the cross and their innovated celebrations, participating with the polytheists and imitating the misguided. The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) said,

Whoever imitates a people is of them.

O miserable one! Where is your intellect taking you? How far will you flee from following the Sunnah of your Prophet, Muhammad (ﷺ), to enacting the manifest signs of your enemies?

How far have these people fled from traversing the Straight Path and how close they have come to the way of the misguided devils! [For example] when you perform an action of worship, you [soon] flee from it, looking left and right for a place of refuge! When you traverse the path of knowledge you preoccupy yourself with finding loopholes and concessions under the pretext, ‘we are performing taqlid of the Imāms!’ When you undertake trade and commerce, you indulge in interest based transactions and frequently make oaths that are forbidden upon the trader to take. The Messenger (ﷺ) said,

إِيَّاكُمْ وَكَثَّرَةُ الْحَلَفِ عَنْدَ الْتَّبِيعِ فإِنَّهُ يُفْقِهُ عِنْدَ فِتْنَةٍ كُتِبَ مَثْمَدٌ

Know now [that if you wish to try and rectify the situation] and enjoin the good and forbid the evil, you could devote to the evil and your soul kindle [its base desires] and transgress, hence making the harm that you brought about greater than the good you sought. If you are with your close relatives, or those having position or authority, and you attempt to enjoin good and prohibit the evil upon the weak, ignorant one exempting the strong, knowledgeable one, you have committed an action of disobedience. If however you go against the desires of your soul and [enjoin the good and forbid the evil on all], you must be deliberate and forbearing.

It is necessary in all of this that you have sincerity (ikhlās). Allāh, the Exalted says,

So if this mere saying is an action of disobedience requiring expiation, what of actually doing it? This action comes under consuming the wealth of people in falsehood and Allāh has mentioned the abhorrence of consuming the wealth of people in falsehood in more than one verse.

Allāh, the Exalted, has prohibited gambling and the Muslims have unanimously agreed to its being prohibited. This is regardless of whether it takes the form of chess or backgammon, or involves dice, eggs, or any other games. More than one of the Tābi‘īn such as ‘Atā’, Muḥammad b. An-Nakha‘ī and Tāwūs said, ‘everything that involves betting is from gambling and that is prohibited, even the playing of children with dice.’

The meaning of ‘give in charity’ is that amount which he placed while betting as quoted by Ibni al-‘Aṭīr, Jāmi‘ al-‘Uṣūl[11/682] from al-Khaṭṭābī. I say: this opinion is to be criticised as the Prophetic order only implies giving charity in general. Allāh knows best.

Know that buying incense and striking [another person] with cups that release incense on that day is from the vile actions.

The hanging of crosses and paper with pictures on it in houses is from the calamitous sins, the one who believes that this is permissible and of benefit has clearly been misguided. Have you not heard the saying of your Prophet (ﷺ),

Imitating the disbelievers

As for the Nairūz, the people of Egypt go to great extremes in it and they celebrate it. It is the first day of the year of the Copts and they take that day as a celebration and the Muslims imitate them in it. It occurs in the beginning of autumn.

Hudhayfah (radiyAllahu 'anhu) said, ‘whoever imitates a people is of them. The outward attire of one does not resemble another except that eventually the morals and manners will resemble the others.’

Ibn Mas'ūd (radiyAllahu 'anhu) said, ‘the outward attire of one does not resemble the others except that eventually the heart resembles the others.’

So if imitating them in such a small thing leads to such harmful consequences, making this action prohibited, then what if you add to this the imitation of that which is pure disbelief? Actions such as seeking blessings with the cross, baptisms and christenings, or beliefs such as ‘our God is one and the same’

57 Al-Bayhaqi mentioned something similar after having reported it.
   «T» Wherein he said [9/235], ‘this was because a day was singled out and specified that the Shari'ah had not legislated to be specified.’ Al-Ḥakim at-Tirmidhi, Nawādir al-Usūl [1/165] mentions that the reason behind his saying this was to point out that one should not take any notice of it nor give it any sort of significance.

meaning that the object of worship is the same but the routes to Him are different. In the light of these, decorating eggs, staining the horns of goat, and cattle in general with red clay become relatively inconsequential even though all of the above is invalid and false.

There is no might and movement except with Allâh, the Most High, the Great.

O Allâh! Give life to our hearts through following the pure Sunnah, and extend Your tawfiq to us, do not leave us to our selves even for a minute, guide us to the Straight Path and save us from indecent deeds and innovations, the outward and hidden.

Ibn Mâjah reports from ‘A’ishah (rady ‘Allâhu ‘anhu) that the Messenger of Allâh (SAW) said, ‘the Jews do not envy you for anything as much as they envy you for saying the Salâm and Âmin.’
APPENDIX

“WHOEVER IMITATES A PEOPLE IS OF THEM”

Ibn Taymiyyah ‘Iqtida’ at-Sirat al-Mustaqim’ [1/240+] said, “the least that can be said about this hadith is that it necessitates the prohibition of imitating them even though its literal sense necessitates that the one who does so is a disbeliever, as in His saying,

«If any of you take them as friends and protectors then surely he is one of them» [Al-Mā‘īdah (5): 51]

This is similar to what we will mention from ‘Abdullāh bin ‘Amr that he said, ‘whoever builds [his residence] in the land of the polytheists, celebrates their New Year and other festivals and imitates them until he dies, he will be resurrected with them.’

This hadith could be taken to refer to complete and unrestricted imitation, for this necessitates disbelief and in turn demands the prohibition of partial imitation. It could also mean that the one guilty of imitation is from them with respect to that particular issue he imitated them in – therefore if what he imitated was disbelief then his ruling would be one of disbelief, if what he imitated was a sin then his ruling would be of a sinner and so on.

No matter how one looks at it, this hadith necessitates that

1 The appendix and all footnotes in it have been added by the translator.
Whoever imitates a people is of them.\(^1\)

\[^{[7/240^+]}\text{ said, }\] said, “the imitation is prohibited by reason of the very fact that it is imitation. This ruling encompasses those who perform something for the same reason that they [the disbelievers] performed it—which is rare—and those who follow others due to a personal objective or some other reason. This latter case is conditional upon the fact that the basis of that action is taken from those others.

As for the case of someone doing an action, and a [disbeliever] happens to be doing that same action, and one did not take it from the other, then regarding this to be imitation is problematic. However it is possible that this too be prohibited so that it not be taken as a means to actually committing imitation and due to the [general command to] oppose the disbeliever. An example of this lies with dying the beards and trimming the moustache.

Moreover the saying of the Prophet (ﷺ),

\[ \text{عَيْرُوا } \text{شَيْبَ } \text{وَلاَ } \text{نَشُبُ } \text{يَهُودٍ } \]

Change [the colour] of white hairs and do not imitate the Jews provides evidence that imitating them can occur without our intending to imitate them and without our doing anything, indeed it could occur by our merely not changing that which is created in us [i.e. white hairs]. This case has greater and more far-reaching implications than mere coincidental agreement with the disbelievers in a particular action.

In this hadith, reported by ibn 'Umar, the Prophet (ﷺ) prohib-
Imitating the disbelievers

ited imitating the Persians (a‘jīm) and said,

\text{من نسيب بقوم فهو منهم}

Whoever imitates a people is of them.

More than one of the scholars have used this hadith to prove the abhorrence of matters that are from the habit or attire of the non-Muslims.

In what we have mentioned thus far it becomes known that the nation, in general, is unanimously agreed that it is abhorrent to imitate the People of the Book and the Persians.

Al-Munawī, Fayd al-Qadir [6/135] said, Whoever imitates a people: meaning takes his outward habits and attire from them, he follows their actions as a matter of course, he takes his manners from them and follows their way and guidance with regards to dress and some of their actions. His imitation has affected the outer and the inner.

Is of them: It is said that the meaning is that whoever imitates the righteous is to be regarded as their follower and is honoured as they are honoured. Whoever imitates the sinners is to be disgraced and abandoned just as they are. Whoever has a sign indicating nobility placed on him is to be honoured even if his nobility has not actually been realised.

Also derived from this hadith is the fact that it is no longer permissible to wear blue and yellow turbans as mentioned by Ibn Ruslān. Al-Qurtubi went further and said that if the people of sin and those without shame are made to wear specific Appendix “Whoever Imitates a People is of Them”

Whoever imitates a people is of them. clothes, it becomes forbidden for others to wear the same type of clothes. This is because a person who does not know them could then think that they are from the sinners and therefore hold a bad opinion of them, hence both the holder of the opinion and the object of the opinion would be sinful. The object of opinion would be sinful because he aided the holder of the opinion in arriving at that opinion.

Some said that imitation could occur with regards the affairs of the heart such as beliefs and desires just as it could occur with regards external matters such as statements and actions. These external actions could be actions of worship or habitual actions such as food, clothes, abode, marriage, meeting and parting, travelling, residing, riding and other such matters.

There is a close link and connection between the outer and inner. Al-Mustaphā (ﷺ) was sent with wisdom, which is the Sunnah and this in turn is the law and way which has been legislated for him. From that which has been legislated for him are statements and actions that clearly differentiate one from the way of those who have anger upon them and the misguided.

He commanded us to oppose them in the outward matters in this hadith even if there is no harm therein. This is due to a number of reasons, from amongst which is that imitating in outward matters has an affect on those imitating each other which then goes on to affect morals, manners and actions. This is a matter which is physically witnessed, take for example a person who wears the clothes of scholars, he will find in himself some sort of connection to them...
From amongst these reasons is that opposition in outward matters necessitates demarcation and differentiation and therefore severs one from the causes leading to the anger [of Allâh] and misguidance. It also inculcates an inclination and attachment to the people of guidance and pleasure [of Allâh].

From amongst these reasons is that imitating them in outward matters necessitates publicly mixing with them to the point that the distinguishing factors between the guided and those who have anger upon them and the misguided is removed.

Ibn Taymiyyah said concerning this hadîth... [quoting the above mentioned paragraph]"

He also said [3/266] concerning this hadîth, "meaning that his ruling with [regards that action of imitation] is the same as their ruling. This is because every sin that is committed is the heritage of a nation that Allâh destroyed. Sodomy is the heritage of the people of Lût,\(^2\) taking ones right beyond what is due and giving less than what is due is the heritage of the people of Allâh says,

Do not cause corruption in the earth after it has been set in order, that will be better for you, if you are believers. And lie not in wait in every road, threatening, and hindering from the Path of Allāh those who believe in Him and seeking to make it crooked. Remember when you were but few and He increased your number, and see what was the end of the evil doers!’} \] (Al-A‘rāf 7:85-86)

«Indeed Pharaoh exalted himself in the land and made its people sects, oppressing a group among them (i.e. the Children of Israel) by killing their sons and letting their females live. Verily he was an evil doer.» [Al-Qasas (28): 4]

«And [We destroyed also] QarUn, Pharaoh, and Hamn. Indeed Moses came to them with clear signs but they were arrogant in the land, yet they could not outstrip Us (i.e. escape Our punishment).» [Al-Ankabut (29): 39]

5 Allāh says,

«Such were ‘Ad, they rejected the signs of their Lord and disobeyed His Messengers, and followed the command of every proud, obstinate [oppressor of the truth, from their leaders]. They were pursued by a curse in this world and [so they will be] on the Day of Resurrection. No doubt! Indeed ‘Ad disbelieved in their Lord. So away with ‘Ad, the people of Hūd» [Hūd (11): 59-60]
